

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A projection television comprising: a screen displaying a picture; a body casing combining with the screen, a supporting unit provided inside the body casing and supporting the bottom of the screen, and a drain hole formed on the bottom of the supporting unit and discharging moisture permeated into the screen. The projection television discharges the moisture permeated along the screen, thereby preventing the deterioration of the screen.